

Bitter Fight on Klan at Night Session; Convention to Start Balloting Today; Tornado Kills Hundred in Ohio Cities

Proposal to Name Klan Directly Turned Down After One of Most Stirring Fights in History of Presidential Nominating Conventions - Hisses Mingle with Cheers When Name of Order is Mentioned.

League Also Rejected

Despite Pleas of Former Secretary of War Baker Full Endorsement of League of Nations Refused—National Referendum Recommended—Convention Adjourns at 2 a. m. to Meet This Morning.

New York, June 29. — Emerging victoriously from a titanic struggle over its platform, the Democratic national convention prepared today to plunge into another over candidates.

Balloting for a nominee for the presidency will begin tomorrow morning. A deadlock is in prospect and tonight the supporters of a dozen candidates renewed their predictions of victory.

The platform was perfected at 2 o'clock this morning, when, amid scenes of confusion seldom paralleled in party history a plank condemning the Ku Klux Klan by name was pronounced rejected by the narrow margin of a single vote. Another serious contest had been decided previously by adoption of a plank reaffirming in general terms only the party's faith in the League of Nations.

The convention's action on the all-absorbing question of the Klan apparently had no effect upon the relative standing of the candidates, except as it provided a further argument for use by those who are predicting that neither McAdoo nor Smith can be elected. The out and out anti-Klan plank, according to permanent Chairman Walsh's announcement, received 541 votes, with the active supporters of Governor Smith, and others friendly to him voting for it while 442 votes were announced as cast against it, largely from the states that are giving their support to Mr. McAdoo.

The totals of the vote as actually cast by states and territories, however, and as verified on recapitulation today shows that 545.15 votes were cast against simpling out the Klan by name and that 541.85 votes were cast in favor of it. This actually increases the majority to 4.30 votes instead of the one single vote as given in the official announcement.

The Smith people declared the total recorded for the proposal showed conclusively the inability of McAdoo to muster the two-thirds necessary for a nomination. The McAdoo managers said the vote cast on the other side meant the elimination of Smith. The managers for the other candidates agreed with both of them.

Leaders Split Candidates.

As a result, the only discernible trend of opinion among the leaders at the time they weighed the outcome of yesterday's sessions and laid their plans for the battle they begin tomorrow was a further sifting over of available nominees to which the party can turn if the two now, now at the top of the list are both eliminated.

Almost as a unit, the anti-Klan elements of the party expressed their willingness tonight to remain content with their defeat if the platform committee, despite the narrow margin by which it was attained, there was one suggestion that a resolution might be offered tomorrow night to the effect that the plank adopted as to effect a condemnation of the Klan, but the motion had no indication of widespread support.

The convention floor fight over the League of Nations had been accompanied by an unusual display of passion, but it was colorful and almost unimportant in contrast to the battle waged by the Klan plank through the night hours and into the early morning of the Sabbath.

In two hours of intensive debate several of the outstanding figures of the Democratic past and present flung upon the emotions of the vast throng until delegates and spectators had reached a pitch of nervous excitement bordering on the hysterical. The debate was a series of interruptions and interruptions. The speaker of the day, Mr. William Jennings Bryan, was interrupted by a series of interruptions. The speaker of the day, Mr. William Jennings Bryan, was interrupted by a series of interruptions.

For two hours and a half, the convention fought in a state bordering on hysteria to determine its position on the League of Nations. Time and again the roll call was interrupted by the shouting of delegates and spectators. The speaker of the day, Mr. William Jennings Bryan, was interrupted by a series of interruptions.

At last, after a long and bitter struggle, the convention adjourned at 2 a. m. to meet this morning.

with the galleries cleared of spectators. One of the greatest crowds that ever packed the Garden looked down from the galleries on the delegates arena, and even veiled references to the Klan brought ominous roars of mingled applause and disapprobation flooding down to the convention floor. But as the League debate went on the oppressive heat and the passing of the dinner hour thinned out the tiered ranks of spectators and the officials decided to go ahead.

Extra details of police were put on duty so that a solid rank of blue-coats, standing shoulder to shoulder, separated the delegates from the galleries that sloped up on all sides like the edges of a platter. More officers were placed in the aisles of the delegation itself, and at opposite ends of the Garden solid companies of policemen stood in ranks ready for whatever might require their attention.

It was in this setting that perhaps the fiercest battle ever waged in a national presidential convention began late in the evening.

Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, opened the debate for the plank submitted by the majority of the platform committee, which merely reaffirmed the principle of religious freedom without mention of the Klan. The speaker soon found out the temper of his audience and he and those who followed him were greeted by crashes of applause and shouts of dissent, sounding a noisy prelude to the scenes of disorder that were to follow.

Klan Severely Arraigned.

William R. Patterson of Maine, who sponsored the minority report from the committee embodying an out and out condemnation of the Klan, fanned the mounting flames of enthusiasm by a direct arraignment of the order, and a challenge to the courage of the convention to arraign itself against Klansmen and Klan policies in every state in the Union.

But the confagration did not burst forth in all its fury until Erwin of Georgia introduced the plank and in defiance to the great majority of his delegation, called for help from the other states to put into the platform a plank that would express directly the party's contempt for the Klan and the League of Nations. Cheering that accompanied his return to his seat among his scowling colleagues was turned into an uproar when a woman carried the standard of Rhode Island down the aisle and held it high above that of Georgia. One by one the other anti-Klan states sent their standards to keep Rhode Island company, and hundreds crowded around the Georgians as they sat silently in their places.

The demonstration soon became a parade with Erwin borne about the crowd on the shoulders of two delegates and with the anti-Klan standards following in a seething stream of humanity. Chairman Walsh pounded in vain for order; the compelling impulses of the delegates had broken their hands at last, and nothing could have stopped or did stop them until the demonstration had spent its force.

Bryan Hissed From Galleries.

Twice during the speech with which Mr. Bryan closed the debate the chairman came to his aid to restore order in the galleries which had greeted with boos and hisses his arguments for omission of the name of the Klan from the platform.

But many in the galleries applauded, too, joining with the delegates in directing the light along its roaring way. Once Senator Walsh moved out to clear the galleries, but they did not take him seriously.

The vote of every state down the long roll call was answered by applause, and the uproar became a roar and over, covering the half of the Garden.

Because of the confusion and the closeness of the result, Chairman Walsh directed the secretary to recapitulate the result by states, again the totals for a half dozen states were challenged and the delegations poised, delegates in several parts of the hall contested for recognition at the same time and screamed to make themselves heard above the uproar in an effort to change their vote.

By this time the closing hours of the day had passed and Sunday had found the crowd in the Garden a vast, unmanageable congregation of about 10,000 people. The crowd had battled through the hours to keep the convention in hand, but now it was beaten. The thundering voice with which he hurled his questions upon the committee was a roar. The speaker of the day, Mr. William Jennings Bryan, was interrupted by a series of interruptions.

Democratic Platform, Adopted After Fierce Struggle, Flays Republican "Corruption"

KLAN NOT NAMED

Plank Urges Religious Freedom; League Referendum Advocated Instead of Full Endorsement

New York, June 29.—The platform adopted by the Democratic national convention avoids naming Klan in the paragraph on "Religious Freedom" and urges a League referendum instead of a full endorsement of the League of Nations. It flays Republican "corruption" and "misrule."

After paying homage to the late Woodrow Wilson and declaring that the Democratic party believes in equal right to all and special privilege to none it avers that the Republican party holds that special privileges are essential to national prosperity and that it is concerned chiefly with human rights.

It charges Republican inefficiency and corruption and asserts that dishonesty, discrimination, extravagance and inefficiency exist in government. It pledges the Democratic party to the following program:

To drive from the public places all who make barrier of our national honor, its resources or the administration of its laws, to punish those guilty of these offenses.

To put none but the honest in public office, to practice economy in the expenditure of public money, to reform the constitution.

To condemn and destroy government by the spy and the blackmailer, to drive from the public places all who make barrier of our national honor, its resources or the administration of its laws, to punish those guilty of these offenses.

The income tax was intended as a tax upon wealth. It is not intended to take from the poor any part of the necessities of life. We hold that the fairest tax with which to raise revenues for the federal government is the income tax. We favor a graduated tax upon incomes, so adjusted as to lay the burdens of government upon the taxpayers in proportion to the benefits they enjoy and their ability to pay. We oppose the so-called nuisance taxes, sales taxes and all other forms of taxation that unfairly shift to the consumer the burdens of taxation.

We denounce the Mellon tax plan as a device to relieve multi-millionaires at the expense of other taxpayers, and we accept the issue of taxation tendered by President Coolidge.

Agriculture.

To adopt an international policy of such cooperation as will protect the farmer's export market.

To adjust the tariff so that the farmer and all other classes can buy again in a competitive market.

To readjust and lower rail and water rates.

To bring about the early completion of the internal waterway system for transportation and to develop our water powers for cheaper power and use on our farms.

To stimulate by every proper governmental activity the progress of the co-operative marketing movement and the establishment of an export marketing corporation.

(f) To secure for the farmer credits for his needs.

MUCH TALK OF DAVIS

West Virginian Mentioned in Many Quarters; Ralston Forces Are Doing Much Maneuvering

New York, June 29. — On the eve of balloting in the Democratic national convention the leading candidates for the presidential nomination were busy tonight consolidating their position and issuing pronouncements of their confidence in the outcome.

Meanwhile those seeking the nomination but admittedly without any chance like the numerical strength of the first ballots that will be mustered by either William G. McAdoo or Alfred E. Smith, were continuing their quiet campaigns and laying plans against the time when they predicted there would be a break away from both the former treasury secretary and the New York governor. Wherever leaders or delegates congregated today there was discussion of the possible effect upon the fortunes of this candidate or that resulting from the action of the convention early today in rejecting the anti-Klan plank. Both McAdoo and Smith managers claim that the result, if anything, strengthens their position, but other candidates or their managers were in disagreement with that view.

With balloting only a few hours away there was more than the usual amount of "dark horse" talk. Leaders grooming such "horses" expressed the opinion tonight that 46 ballots would turn to a compromise candidate.

Those interested in the candidacy of Senator Samuel M. Ralston, of Indiana, heard that in the event of a Smith-McAdoo deadlock the adherents of these two candidates would swing their votes to John W. Davis of West Virginia. It also was stated that either Governor Charles Bryan of Nebraska or Governor Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas would be second on such a compromise ticket.

Some of the Ralston supporters have suggested a Ralston-Homer F. Cummings or a Ralston-Governor Siler ticket to offset such a nomination.

Both McAdoo and Smith held final conferences with their lieutenants today for discussion of the opening phase of the battle of ballots.

Freedom of Religion.

The Democratic party reaffirms its adherence and devotion to those cardinal principles contained in the constitution and the precepts upon which our government is founded, that congress shall make no laws respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances; that the church and the state shall be and remain separate, and that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States. These principles we pledge ourselves ever to defend and maintain. We insist at all times upon obedience to the orderly processes of the law and deplore and condemn any effort to arouse religious or racial dissension.

Improved Highways.

Improved roads are of vital importance, not only to commerce and industry, but also to agriculture and rural life. We call attention to the record of the Democratic party in aid of federal aid under existing federal and state agencies.

Popular Elections.

We pledge the Democratic party to a policy which will prevent members of either house who fail of reelection from participating in the subsequent sessions of congress. This can be accomplished by fixing the days for convening the congress immediately after the biennial national election; and to this end we favor granting the right to the people of the several states to vote on proposed constitutional amendments.

Veterans of Wars.

We favor generous appropriations, honest management and sympathetic care and assistance in the hospitalization, rehabilitation and compensation of the veterans of all wars and their dependents. The humanizing of the veterans' bureau is imperatively required.

Law Enforcement.

The Republican administration has failed to enforce the prohibition law; is guilty of trafficking in liquor permits, and has become the protector of violators of this law.

The Democratic party pledges itself to respect and enforce the constitution and all laws.

Philippine Independence.

The Filipino people have succeeded in maintaining a stable government and have thus fulfilled the only condition laid down by congress as a prerequisite to the granting of independence. We declare that it is now our liberty and our duty to keep our promise to these people by granting them immediately the independence of their island.

Labor and Child Welfare.

Labor is not a commodity. It is human. We favor collective bargaining and laws regulating hours of labor and conditions under which labor is performed. We favor the enactment of legislation providing that the product of convict labor shipped from one state to another shall be subject to the laws of the latter state exactly as though they had been produced there. In order to mitigate unemployment attending business depression, we urge that enactment of legislation authorizing the construction and repair of public works be initiated in periods of acute unemployment.

Estimates of Property Damage Through Fierce Tornado Run Into Many Millions of Dollars

(By the Associated Press.)
Cleveland, O., June 29. — Loss of life in yesterday's tornado which wrecked a large portion of Loraine and parts of Sandusky and other Ohio cities was not as great as first reports indicated, but re-checking of casualties tonight showed that probably more than 100 persons lost their lives in the storm and in almost simultaneous disturbances at Pittsburgh and in the upper Mississippi valley.

The greatest loss of life was at Loraine where the latest count showed 68 dead and 118 injured, a score of them suffering severe hurts. The property loss there was upwards of $300,000. 125 city blocks having been demolished. At Sandusky it was found that only six persons were killed, although a hundred were injured and property valued at $3,000,000 was destroyed.

There were seven fatalities in Cleveland, although the property damage was small. Pittsburgh reported 16 persons killed in western Pennsylvania, while Mantua, Ohio, reported three dead and Akron one. The death total in Iowa and Illinois was 12, making a death list of 104. The total property damage when reports from the rural regions are complete will probably aggregate $50,000,000.

where the tornado tore down a quarter of the city, swamped rescue work went forward smoothly and state troops kept order among the inhabitants, hundreds of whom were thrown out of their homes and had to be sheltered in tents.

The greatest loss of life at Loraine occurred in the State theatre, a four story building, which collapsed and crushed many of the spectators at a motion picture show. As soon as rescue work was organized last night, a search of the ruins led to the deduction that many scores had been killed, for buildings had been wiped down over the heads of several fairly large assemblages. A bathing beach house was torn to pieces and it was announced that dozens had lost their lives. Investigation today, when light permitted a search of the ruins showed that probably everyone at the beach had escaped with his life. The fact that the tornado struck both Sandusky and Loraine while factories were emptied on account of the Saturday afternoon holiday probably reduced the death totals by hundreds, for a number of manufacturing plants were torn down only a few hours after several thousand employees had left their work.

Fears were entertained during the night for the safety of several steamers on Lake Erie and in Sandusky bay but the calm sunlight of Sunday showed that all steamers had safely ridden out the storm, except one towing launch which had been crushed against a barge. The 35 persons on board this boat scrambled to the barge and escaped injury.

Housing of the homeless and attention to the injured occupied the attention of scores of doctors and nurses and Red Cross workers who had been rushed to the scene during the night as quickly as trains could be piloted into Loraine over undermanned tracks and flooded automobile roads.

LORAIN WILL BURY ITS DEAD AND THEN REBUILD

(By the Associated Press.)
Loraine, Ohio, June 29.—With 67 known dead, approximately half a hundred seriously injured and several hundred having sustained minor injuries from the devastating tornado that swept northern Ohio last night, Loraine tonight was preparing to bury its dead and rebuild.

Early tonight routes through most of the streets had been cut by an army of axemen and traffic that had been congested to the point of stagnation moved a little more freely.

Six hundred national guardsmen were guarding the streets and tomorrow morning 250 more will arrive. When these are on hand, military control will be established and only those who have business to attend to will be permitted within the limits of that city.

Acts of wickedness and heroism were recorded tonight. A National Guard officer related how a young man worked an all night shift adding the words: "I was on duty when things began to move on automobile lying demolished in the street. He walked over to examine it. It was his father and mother, crushed to death. The central high school, crowded in the rear when a shock fell on it, was turned into an emergency meeting place."

LEADERSHIP
THE BLONDE GIANT.

Among America's Olympians of 1924 will be found a modest, unassuming youth who answers to the name of "Tiny" Hartrant, and who is doped to win fifteen or twenty points for the United States in the weight-throwing events. They call him "Tiny" because he is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds, and they count on him for at least a first and a second place in the games, because he has put the shot and thrown the discus farther than any man living.

Tiny is a student at Stanford University. Accounts came out of the west off and on through the spring of a blonde giant who put the shot 80 ft. 11 1/2 in. and threw the discus 154 ft. 4 1/2 in. but the east didn't pay much attention to these records until the L. C. A. A. A. games at the Harvard stadium. There Tiny proceeded to break records right and left, defeating the renowned Hills of Princeton in the shotput with a heave of 49 ft. 5 1/2 in. and winning the discus with a throw of 153 ft. 8 in. The latter mark, a new world's record, was not allowed, however, because it was possibly aided by the wind.

Hartrant developed suddenly in 1922 from a mediocre weight man to one of the best in the world through the coaching of the country's youngest track coach, "Dink" Templeton. In spite of his size, he has run 100 yards in 16 seconds in college dual meets, and it is his speed, as much as his form and strength, that enables him to achieve such remarkable distances with the shot and discus.

SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.

BURIED BENEATH AVALANCHE OF BASE HITS, KINGSTON LOSES TO ONEONTA, 10 TO 1.

With Walsh Pitching Airtight Ball and Giant Bats Working Overtime, Oneonta Annexes Easy Victory from Much-Touted Kingston Colonials—Many Pretty Plays in Game.

Stung by the humiliation of two straight defeats, the Kingston Colonials, for famed as the club which held the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 1 to 0, 10 inning victory, left the city Saturday evening fully convinced, in all probability, that Oneonta has a ball club worthy of high praise. A club which is never beaten until the last man is out in the ninth inning and which is capable of playing baseball of the highest calibre. Staging a desperate, thrilling ninth inning rally on Friday the Giants triumphed over the Colonials, 7 to 6, and yesterday they cut loose the heavy artillery, drove one Kingston twirler from the mound, badly harassed another and won the battle, 10 to 1.

Kingston could touch up Walsh for but seven hits. Three of them came in the second inning, when the Colonials' only run was scored, and the remaining four blunders were so scattered that never was the top bats in trouble. The Giant bats were effective throughout the contest and at times hit bounded from them with a regularity most discouraging to Kingston rooters. Some of them were clean hits while others were drives too hot for the Colonial catchers to handle.

The fielding was sharp throughout the game and at times spectacular. Although unable to place their drive in hit territory, the Colonials were forced to display uncanny skill at times to prevent hits. One of the best plays was Harper's perfect stop of a blazing grounder from a Kingston bat. Jimmy Foylan had a good day in center field, which he punctuated in the absence of Eckstein, who is suffering from a bad ankle, the very little catcher a perfect perfect six chances, some of them hard ones. Kingston started the scoring in the second inning with a drive which held three forebodings. McCue, first to the plate, connected for a slashing double. Coyle batted toward Fred Wilson and Walsh both went after the ball, leaving the first sack unguarded, and during the fracas McCue reached third and Coyle the Pyran scored McCue with a sacrifice fly to center. Foylan singled, sending Coyle to second. Coyle struck out, relieving the situation somewhat, but Walsh walked. Dugan for the second time in the game, idling the sock. Apprehension reigned in the minds of the Colonians as they watched the Little Power Received by Radio.

Schenectady, June 29. — The amount of power received and developed by a small loop antenna radio receiving set has been calculated by Dr. W. R. Whitney, research chemist of the General Electric company. After a long series of experiments, he announced that a loop one foot in diameter, in receiving radio impulses at Schenectady from San Francisco, received such a minute amount of energy that it would take 25 years of continuous radio reception by such an instrument to equal the amount of energy set free by a house fly in climbing one inch up a wall.

Worcester, June 29.—A large number of relatives and friends were present at the thirty-sixth annual commencement exercises of the Worcester High School, held Wednesday evening, June 26. The exercises were held in the auditorium of the Worcester High School, which was decorated with flags and bunting. The program consisted of a variety of songs, recitations, and addresses. The principal, Mr. J. B. Waterman, presided over the exercises. The valedictorian, Miss Mary Bailey, delivered an address on "The Value of a Good Education." The class president, Mr. J. B. Waterman, also delivered an address. The exercises were well attended and the program was highly successful.

The class colors, old rose and gray, were used in the decorating scheme. The program consisted of a variety of songs, recitations, and addresses. The principal, Mr. J. B. Waterman, presided over the exercises. The valedictorian, Miss Mary Bailey, delivered an address on "The Value of a Good Education." The class president, Mr. J. B. Waterman, also delivered an address. The exercises were well attended and the program was highly successful.

Miss Frances A. Brady as testatrix, will be many valuable effects to the class and faculty. Alton Waterman gave a most excellent essay on "Mexico," which was followed by the valedictory address by John D. Bulson, Jr., who used the words, "Faint heart never starts and the weak die on the way," found in Emerson Hough's "Covered Wagon," as a basis of his essay.

The diplomas were presented by J. B. Waterman, president of the board of education, and the prizes were awarded by Principal Ingalls. Rev. R. F. Lesh pronounced the benediction, after which congratulations were extended to the class by friends and faculty.

The Alumni Banquet.
About 60 members of the alumni, with their guests, were seated at the banquet given at the Central hotel last evening. The dinner prepared was excellent and there was an abundance of each dish.

Dr. A. D. Miller, former principal of Worcester high school, acted as toastmaster. His introductory remarks were especially fine. He made an eloquent plea to the alumni to help support the playground and to make Worcester the most beautiful town along the line. His introduction of each speaker was especially witty and very applicable.

J. B. Waterman, the retiring president of the board of education, used as his subject, "Now and Then," showing the advantages the class of '24 have over those who received their education in the "little old school house."

William Whitcomb, representing the class of '24 speaking "To the great ones," toasted the toastmaster, the faculty, the board, the High School and the class.

Miss Frances Olmstead of the class of '21 in her talk on "Crumbs," vividly pictured how each crumb of education, gained in the grades and High School forms the whole loaf of higher education.

Rev. Isaac Taylor of the Baptist church, whose subject was "Smiles," spoke in his introductory remarks of the perils of too much education. He also said much could be gained in this world by a smiling countenance.

Jason Gunning, a former student of the High School, was the last speaker. His remarks were especially witty and very applicable.

High School Commencement.

Beginning with Sunday, this past week has been given over largely to the nine young people who compose the graduating class of 1924, of the Edmeston High School. The commencement services were held Sunday morning in the Methodist church, the auditorium of which was prettily decorated with crepe paper, flowers and ferns, featuring the class colors, gold and white. Rev. R. L. Cornell, who preached the sermon, used as his text, "In what place, therefore, ye hear the sound of the trumpet, resort ye thither unto us; our God shall fight for us." Added pleasure was given to this service by the combined choruses of the Methodist and Baptist churches, who, aided by a six piece orchestra, furnished the music for the occasion.

On Monday evening the promotion exercises were held at the opera house, at which time the audience entertained the large audience with drills, songs and plays in a very creditable manner. Following this, the graduating class gave their class day exercises, which were much enjoyed by the appreciative assemblage. The program was interspersed with musical numbers very well rendered by the High School orchestra.

On Tuesday evening the class of 1924 held their commencement exercises at the opera house, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. The essays read by the graduates dealt with current problems and showed much thought and careful preparation. Special musical numbers, interspersed throughout the program, were much enjoyed. G. H. Ritter, president of the local board, in presenting their diplomas, bade the class always to keep in mind their class motto, "Labor leads to the heights of success." At this time the various prizes and awards offered annually by interested individuals were presented to the winners.

The Alumni Banquet.

The seventeenth annual banquet of the Alumni association of Edmeston High School was held at the Grange hall on Wednesday evening. At the business meeting held preceding the banquet, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Carolyn Rutherford; Vice president, Fred Aylesworth, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Beth Welch. It was voted at this meeting to give two prizes of $5 each annually, one to the children of the first, second, third and fourth grades and the other to the child in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades securing the highest average for the year on a basis of two thirds for class work and one third for tests. The ladies of the P. E. S. served an excellent banquet to about 75 members and guests of the association, after which Mrs. Reba Newton, '12, as toastmistress introduced the various speakers in a most pleasing manner. Each one responded to his or her toast in a happy vein, which added much to the evening's enjoyment. Special mention should be made of the decorations, which were artistic and attractive, causing much favorable comment and showing much work on the part of the committee in charge. The affair was a fitting close to the activities of commencement week.

CONCERT AT SCHENEVUS

Interesting Entertainment Under Auspices of Epworth League.

Schenevus, June 29. — A concert given Friday evening at the Methodist church under the auspices of the Epworth league consisting of vocal and instrumental numbers was of high quality and excellently interpreted by the Duren-Summers Concert company, with Harry E. Brooks as manager; Mrs. George Summerson, soprano; Mrs. G. L. Packer, pianist; L. A. Duren, tenor; George Summerson, violinist; Harry E. Brooks and Charles Staley, bass. An excellent program pleased a good sized audience. All the numbers were received with hearty applause and encores were given. Such appealing numbers as the "Minuet in G" by Beethoven, and "The Rosary" by Ethelbert Nevin, were the violin encores numbers given by Mr. Summerson. The indisposition of Mrs. Summerson prevented her appearance, much to the regret of the audience. A return of the concert company is the near future is anticipated.

I began to feel well and strong again and was able to do my housework up to the time my baby was born—a big fat little girl in the best of health. I surely am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends when they have troubles like mine, and I am perfectly willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial." — Mrs. FRANK H. He made the patient as comfortable as possible and she is now resting at her home.

Ocean Temperature.

The surface water of the ocean varies in temperature with the latitude. The hottest water, about 80 degrees, is at the equator, and the coldest at the poles. At a depth of 700 feet, however, the ocean, even in the tropics, is extremely cold. This icy water has drifted down from the poles, spreading its chilling effect over the entire sea. In the Arctic regions the temperature is very close to the freezing point. There is no danger that the ocean will ever freeze, because the water is in perpetual motion through waves, tides and currents, and also because the warm water at the equator keeps the general temperature from dropping too low.

"Curfew" in America.

There are no states in the Union where the curfew as it was known in the early days is enforced. Formerly, the curfew was sounded as a signal for all fires and lights to be put out. This was because heat was obtained from open fireplaces, and the measure was regarded as necessary for the safety of the community in order to prevent fires. According to Roarke's Dictionary, some states have enacted legislation in regard to the curfew, but it is used generally as a convenient method of letting the inhabitants know what time of night it is.

It had been a hurry call to a distant city. "Just time to slip a few clothes into a suitcase and hurry to the station."

Grant is an experienced traveler. Among the other things that went into his suitcase was a Kuppenheimer hand-tailored suit. He knew that it was probably the most useful thing in that tightly packed assortment—that there'd be several occasions during the trip when he'd need to get out of his traveling clothes.

A splendid suit for it's all 'round adaptability, is this 3-button model — real good style, without "frills."

James Slattery of Columbus, Ohio, Visiting His Brother Here.

James Slattery of Columbus, Ohio, a conductor on the Hocking Valley, is visiting his brother, John Slattery, at 317 Main street. Mr. Slattery was for three years prior to 1884 employed as a brakeman on the Susquehanna division of the D. & H. with headquarters in Oneonta and for a time was assigned to duties with the crew of Charles F. Mr. Slattery is now a conductor on the Hocking Valley and has been there for some 18 years. He left Oneonta 40 years ago last April and during the two score years that have elapsed has been employed upon various roads in the country.

He was one of the charter members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Brakemen which was founded here and recalls vividly the early struggles of the organization. Its name has since been changed to Trainmen. Mr. Slattery for some time retained his membership in lodge No. 1 and he knew personally all the men active in its history.

Mr. Slattery will remain for a few days with his brother, calling upon a few of the men now here who were on the road at that early day. He is much impressed with Oneonta's growth and has many kind words to say of its notable advancement.

Robbery of Oneonta Residence of George B. Baird Discovered by Partial Recovery of Stocks

With the arrest of Jackson DeForest, aged 47, of Dansville, in Providence, R. I., early last Friday morning was discovered the theft of stocks of considerable intrinsic value, variously estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000, from the residence of George B. Baird, at the corner of Chestnut and Church streets in this city. Mr. Baird steadily refused yesterday to estimate the value of the stocks stolen on the plea that he had not taken the trouble to tabulate the amount and that there was no real loss, but persistent rumors about the city place the value of the stocks within the figures given above.

Mr. Baird discussed the affair freely with the exception of the amounts taken. The markets have been notified of and have acknowledged the receipt of a list of all the stocks stolen. Mr. Baird faces no possible loss, since a new issue of stock will be applied for, and since but one small certificate bore a true endorsement.

Chief Horton of the police department was notified of the apprehension of DeForest and he is now in Providence to arrange extradition. Mr. Baird learns of Theft Friday. While it is not known just when the stocks were taken, Mr. Baird was not aware of their loss until he was called by the police department of Providence and told of the arrest of DeForest and the subsequent search of his rooms which revealed certificates to the face value of $17,742 made in the name of Mr. Baird.

The man was held in jail of $10,000 on a charge of carrying burglar tools and the local department notified.

In talking of the robbery yesterday Mr. Baird said that he could not imagine how the man gained entrance to the house. Nothing out of the way had been noticed, nor has it been possible to discover marks of the forcing of an entrance. He was not certain whether the stocks were last placed in his desk on the ground floor or in a fireproof safe in the cellar, however, he was inclined to the former belief since other valuables were in the safe and were not disturbed.

Mr. Baird remembered having the stocks out for the purpose of placing them in new envelopes, the old ones having been remarked so many times that it was difficult to check their contents, about May 15, but since upon reaching this city, was in charge of Engineer Chambers and Conductor MacDonald, both of Kingston, and both stated that they were unable to see any considerable distance ahead of the train.

Party of Oneontans Struck by U. & D. Milk Train at Mickle Bridge Crossing Yesterday Afternoon—Condition of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Considered Serious, While Others Escape More Fortunately.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Clark and children of Oneonta miraculously escaped instant death yesterday afternoon when the Ford touring car of Mr. Allen was struck by the U. & D. milk train at the Mickle bridge crossing just above this city and thrown down a twenty foot embankment. All were rushed to the Fox Memorial hospital on the trip and in the ambulance and it was found that Mr. and Mrs. Clark and children, a little girl and boy, sixteen months and three years of age respectively, had escaped particularly fortunately, and that Mr. and Mrs. Allen were seriously, but not critically injured. Mr. Clark was able to leave the institution after an examination, and the other members of his family are expected to be able to leave today.

It is hoped that Mr. and Mrs. Allen will make speedy recoveries, unless more serious injuries be found. Mrs. Allen complained of a sprained back last evening, and she suffered other bruises as well. Mr. Allen, who is a bridge carpenter for the D. & H., suffered a broken leg and other injuries, including several severe cuts.

The rest of the party, and the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark, received painful lacerations to her face and hands. Mr. Clark was able to walk about last evening in spite of a wrench to his knee and bruise. The automobile party was crossing from Colliers to the Davenport state road and had stopped to put on side curtains just before crossing the railroad tracks. At that time it was raining particularly heavily. The milk train, which is composed of but one car and caboose besides the engine

THE SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK

Overdressed and Overdressed Men, Will Be the Playground of Little Children, Unless Vacation Homes Are Provided for Them.

Do you remember the sweltering heat of the early days of last week? Have you thought how children in the tenements must suffer when it's hot and do you realize what a blessed relief two weeks in the cool country would be?

Stop to think of that now for a moment and then figure out some way to entertain one or more of the little children of poverty for two weeks this summer. Imagine yourself a boy or a girl, with a yearning for play and the pleasures of childhood, crowded up in a dingy, smelly, crowded tenement, with no escape but to the broiling streets. Pity the poor children who have to put up with what you can't bear to imagine for yourself, for your own little children.

Teams of Rotarians are scouring the countryside these days for vacation homes for the kiddies. Probably you will be visited by them. Let your inward pity have outward expression and tell those Rotarians when they come to your door that you will gladly entertain one or more children for two weeks. If you are not solicited within the next few days, communicate with C. C. Miller or Rev. L. Curtis Benney. Remember that your only obligation is to provide the kiddies with food, a place to sleep, and a little kindness.

Guests at Cathedral Farms.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Buckley of Hollywood, Cal., and New York city, spent the week-end at the home of the uncle of the former, H. H. Buckley, at Cathedral Farms. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley of St. Louis, Mo., are also at the home where they expect to spend several weeks. Mr. Buckley, a nephew of H. H. Buckley, is a representative of the Lee Tire company.

Harry D. Buckley, first mentioned, is personal general manager for Douglas Fairbanks, and is in the east directing the presentation of "The Thief of Bagdad." Fairbanks' latest picture is presented as an entity, with a traveling orchestra and with a special prologue and epilogue. Oneonta's motion picture enthusiasts will be interested to know that the picture is to be seen in this city the coming winter.

Visit Oneonta Fire Department.
Fire Chief M. E. Haskin, first assistant H. Hakes, and second assistant F. Anderson, of the Cortland department, were visitors of the Oneonta department Saturday. They inspected the quarters and the equipment and expressed themselves as highly approving of the apparatus and the other affairs of the Oneonta department.

Kings Heralds to Hike.

Two Wampsville Young Men Drown in Lake Canadarago

William and Frank Lavelly Lose Lives When Motor Driven Rowboat Capsizes After Being Hit by Big Wave in Sudden Squall—Five Other Occupants, Three Women, Man and Child, Rescued.

Schenoy Lake, June 29. — William and Frank Lavelly of Wampsville were drowned in Schenoy lake this afternoon at about 5 o'clock, when the motor propelled rowboat in which they with five others were riding about the lake was overturned just south of the southern end of the island by a large wave caused by one of the squalls which were numerous today. Occupants of the boat who were saved were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bellinger of Oneida, Miss Ada Spencer of Canastota and Mrs. Lavelly of Wampsville, mother of the two young men who were drowned, and a five-year old girl, Catharine Coyle, a ward of Mrs. Lavelly.

Mr. Bellinger owns Windsor Castle, one of the numerous camps on the Kinderhook farm on the east side of the lake and he and Mrs. Bellinger are occupying the camp. They were entertaining the other occupants of the boat over the week-end. They had been about the lake and were proceeding south between the pavilion and the island and when the boat passed the island one big wave nearly upset the boat and the motor stopped. Mr. Bellinger was attempting to start it again when a second wave caused the boat to upset.

Mrs. Bellinger managed to grasp the side of the overturned boat and Mr. Bellinger went to the assistance of Mrs. Lavelly and the three women succeeded in reaching the side of the boat with them. The older of the two Lavelly young men went to the assistance of Miss Spencer, to whom he was engaged, and kept her afloat until a larger and powerful boat which went to their rescue was able to throw a big life preserver which kept her afloat until she was rescued from the water. As soon as Miss Spencer was safe it is thought her rescuer attempted to save his younger brother. Neither was seen after the older one left the side of Miss Spencer.

The lake was very rough at the time and it was considered unsafe to attempt to recover their bodies after it became certain that the two young men were beyond rescue and all effort was abandoned until morning.

The mother of the two young men is nearly prostrated by the sad ending of their pleasure ride and all efforts to secure information from her at the Bellinger camp relative to the family were fruitless. No one could be found who knew the names of the father. He was at Wampsville and has been summoned and is expected to arrive at the Bellinger camp during the night.

According to advices from Richfield Springs the first boat to reach the scene of the drowning was that of Mr. Nagle, occupying one of the camps on the east side, and that W. W. West of Richfield rendered invaluable aid in rescuing from the wave-swept lake the members of the party who survive.

Residents along the lake report that it was exceptionally rough this afternoon and they are inclined to believe it fortunate that only two lives were lost. While the names of the two victims and the fact that one was 21 years old and the other 14 years were obtainable no one could state definitely which, William or Frank, was the older.

DEATH BY DROWNING

Twelve Year Old Son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lewis Bunnell of This City Victim

WON SWIMMING HOLE RACE

Frank Lewis Bunnell, 417 Main street, Victim of Unfortunate Drowning at Cathedral Farms Estate Saturday When Group of Children at Country Club Race to Pool After Harried Lunch.

Frank Lewis Bunnell, twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lewis Bunnell, of 417 Main street, was drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming in the Crotch Creek on the Cathedral Farms estate of H. H. Buckley. Saturday morning after lunch, and it was impossible to recover his body for almost three hours after an hour. His body was found and was on the shore when the body was removed from the water, but no signs of life could be detected. Captain N. W. Gethman of this city was called and he pronounced death as due to accidental drowning.

Frank Bunnell had been paddling at the country club and in company with others of the boys had rushed through lunch and raced to the swimming hole as was their custom. He was the first boy in the water, and was noticed to go down as soon as he hit the water. Other boys jumped in to his rescue, while others gave the alarm and James Simpson, professional of the country club and David Holster, who lives near the club, assisted in the recovery of the boy.

Funeral services for the lad will be held from the family home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. W. C. Dozier of the Elm Park Methodist Episcopal church officiating. Burial will be made at the Plains cemetery.

Dr. Mills, on his way to the scene of the accident, stopped at police headquarters in this city where Officer Simmons and the pulmotor of the department were picked up. However, the body could not be recovered until all life had departed.

Father Describes Accident.

In describing the accident to a representative of The Star yesterday the father of the lad, M. Lewis Bunnell, who is employed as a butcher at the Kellam grocery here, said: "Frank was such a good boy, we certainly do miss him. The boys rushed through their lunches and jumped on their wheels to race from the country club to the swimming hole. They were able to go only part way on their machines, however, and Frank ran first to the bank of the creek and was the first in the water. He was taken with cramps and—well—he won the race."

Frank Lewis Bunnell was born May 27, 1912, at White Lakes, the son of M. Lewis and Addie Sprague Bunnell. The family moved to Unadilla eight or nine years ago, where they lived for a short time, later going to Milford, Conn., where Mr. Bunnell was engaged in business. They came to Oneonta about a year ago and lived, first on Oneida street and later at 250 Chestnut street, before moving to Main street.

Frank had just been promoted from his position as a boy admirer of the swimmer and was a boy admired by his elders and popular among his chums. He was industrious and bright and received honor citation on his promotion.

He was baptized into the Elm Park Methodist church little more than a year ago, and was a member of the Junior Boy Scout class of that Sunday school.

The family will have the sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

Surviving the lad besides his parents, are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bunnell of Davenport; four sisters, Mrs. Violet Anderson of Albany and the Misses Grace, Adelaide and Sarah Elizabeth, the last three living at home; a niece, Miss Frances Anderson, who lived with Mr. and Mrs. M. Lewis Bunnell, and three aunts, Mrs. John Phillips and Mrs. Ella Page of 1 Taft avenue, this city, and Mrs. Ida Page of Monticello.

Swimming Pool Treacherous One.

The swimming pool where the accident occurred is a treacherous one, the cold waters of the Crotch creek being about 14 feet deep, with an overhanging bottom and with numerous springs which cause cold currents. About four or five years ago another fatality took place there and H. H. Buckley, owner of the Cathedral Farms estate, has decided to post his lands with a fence to keep the boys from the pool.

The pool seems to be unduly popular, and the boys from the country club have been in the habit of racing there during the noon hour after eating their lunches, a serious error.

In speaking of his determination to post the land yesterday Mr. Buckley said: "As owner of the farm on which the accident took place I feel an amount of personal responsibility for the sad accident of Saturday and for others which have happened in the pool on the border of my property. Had notices been posted and trespassing of any sort not allowed, these deaths would not have occurred. Therefore, after consulting with the officers of the country club and with the Oneonta police department, and having secured their endorsement of a plan, I have decided that there shall be no more trespassing on the Cathedral Farms for any purpose without the written consent of the owner. Notices will soon be posted and offenders will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Mr. Buckley further explains his decision as follows:

"It has always been my policy as owner of Cathedral Farms to leave the grounds wide open for the public enjoyment without limitation. Considerable annoyance has been caused on frequent occasions in the breaking down of fences and the shooting of birds and small animals."

"The boys from the country club were not in the taking of the fence or in the damage to the fences but in the breaking down of the fence of my valuable herd of purebred Guernsey animals, which cost me $100 from $500 to $1000. It can readily be seen that an enclosure to them would be much more serious than to an ordinary herd."

"However these things I have suffered in the hope that others might find a better way. A fence that brought pleasure to me, but the case of human life is entirely different, and I have taken a stand which would well have been out for me, but to which I am sure you will hold."

FOR FIRST DEGREE ASSAULT

STEPHEN WEIDMAN OF DAVENPORT ARRESTED—CHESTER McADAMS CRITICALLY INJURED

State Troopers Called Following Disagreement at Auction Sale Held at Meridale Saturday — McAdams Knocked Unconscious; Bled From Mouth, Nose and Ears, and Has Body Bruised.

Stephen Weidman, a resident of the town of Davenport, was remanded to the Delhi jail Saturday evening to await the action of the grand jury following his arraignment before Justice Bouton of Meridale Saturday evening on a charge of assault in the first degree. The arrest on a warrant sworn out before Justice Bouton earlier in the evening, followed an argument into which Weidman and a Chester McAdams of the town of Meridale, near Delhi, became involved at the auction sale held Saturday at the home of H. H. Cline in the town of Meridale.

McAdams is said to be in a critical condition and further developments in the case await the outcome of his injuries. He was bleeding from his mouth, nose and ears when Dr. Crimmon of Delhi, who was called, attended him, and he was suffering a severe scalp wound and numerous body wounds.

The story of the fracas between Weidman and John Hornham, both of the town of Meridale, attended the sale held at the Cline home and is about 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. McAdams and Weidman became involved in an argument.

Two witnesses in laying the information for the warrant before Justice Bouton, stated that Weidman struck McAdams with the handle of a pick axe and knocked him to the ground. He was considerably bruised and was bleeding profusely when taken home by his friends.

Dr. Crimmon was called and he stated that the action of McAdams was critical. It was then that the state troopers were called and later arrested Weidman.

When arraigned before Justice Bouton, Weidman waived examination and was remanded to the Delaware county jail at Delhi to await the outcome of the injuries of McAdams and the grand jury.

What the Sun is to the Flower

Have you ever seen a great glowing hollyhock unfolding before the warm rays of the sun, and every delicate vein and thread seemed to quiver with life and joy?

Just so does the Youth in your heart of Youth early in life—quickening gift of visioners to every crumb and thorn.

What the sun does for the flower, the Youth does for your mind. It illumines and reveals the glory of the soul, making the nature of the mind like a flower.

Without sunlight flowers droop and die. Without Youth, the mind you have would not be found at all, but a dead, indistinguishable mass of dough.

It is the rich content of Youth in GOD'S BIRTH that gives it the definite, uplifting thrust that keeps you waiting more and more.

Glistening Body Finish Easily Preserved With Proper Care

When you bought your car, one of the greatest factors in influencing you, was the general finish and appearance of the car. You not only want a car to take you where you want to go, but you want a car you can take a pride in owning. There is no doubt whatever, you get a great deal more pleasure when driving a car that has a fresh glistening body than you do when driving one that looks old and dull.

The question is, how long can the finish of the average car be kept shining and bright? The answer is, it depends entirely on the treatment it receives. The finest body finish can be ruined in a very short time by carelessness or improper treatment, while with proper care it will last for at least one year and perhaps two.

If your car needs washing and polishing up, here's the way to go about it. If you are going to wash it out in the open and the sun is very warm, select a spot somewhere in the shade. If you attempt to wash out in the hot sun, the water dries off before you have a chance to use the chamois, with the result that the finish has a fine collection of streaky marks. For the same reason it is a wise plan never to wash your car directly after a long run on a very warm day when the body is warm—give it a chance to cool off.

If you have a nice shady spot, let's start. Before you turn on the water, remove the nozzle from the hose, so that the water will flow without any force behind it. Neglect of this little point has ruined the finish on thousands of cars. When the water strikes the body with any great force, it simply drives the mud and dirt into the varnish and permanently dulls the finish.

In washing, allow the water to flow on gently over the body, at the same time sponging softly in straight lines to and fro. Never sponge with a circular motion, for if there is any grit in the sponge, the circular motion will cause scratches that will show up badly. When you use straight to and fro motions, if there are any scratches they will not show so much. After you have sponged over the whole car, gently hose it all over to remove any dirt or grit that may remain.

A word about sponges. Use TWO of them and get them as large as possible. Use one for the body exclusively and the other use only for the wheels and chassis. The sponge used on the body must be kept absolutely free from grease, oil, kerosene or gasoline. Any of these oils will dissolve or soften the finish and for this reason must be kept off sponges and chamois.

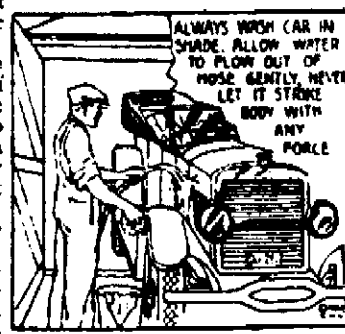

If the body has any mud on it, remove as soon as possible. There are two very good reasons why mud must not be left to dry on the varnish. First, because there is always a certain amount of lime and ammonia in mud that will eat into varnish and spot it. Second, you are liable to scratch the finish unless you are very careful when removing it. The best way to remove mud is to play the hose on it gently and allow the mud to float off. Do not get impatient and try to rub the mud off with the sponge before it is softened.

After hosing and sponging, finish off by drying with a large chamois skin. It is a good idea to have a bucket of clean water beside you, into which you can dip the chamois and rinse it out each time you dry off. Use the chamois the same as you use the sponge, in long straight lines.

After washing all over, do not allow the water to dry on the body or it will leave the finish spotted and streaked. However, you do happen to be unfortunate enough to get the body spotted up a little from this cause, do not worry about it, as a few washings and exposure to the air will soon cause it to disappear.

Never use soap on the body, use nothing but pure water. Sometimes it is necessary to use a little soap or kerosene in the water to remove the grease or oil from the wheels and chassis, but be very careful indeed not to use the sponge you use on the body to sponge the wheels.

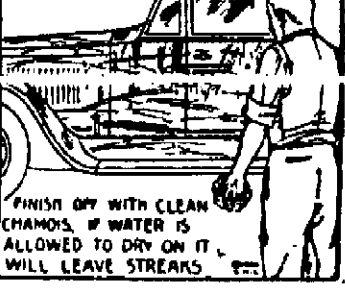

NEXT WEEK—KEEPING CLOTH OR LEATHER UPHOLSTERY IN GOOD CONDITION

ALWAYS WASH CAR IN SHADE. ALLOW WATER TO FLOW OUT OF HOSE GENTLY. NEVER LET IT STRIKE BODY WITH ANY FORCE.

DO NOT ALLOW MUD TO DRY ON BODY. REMOVE MUD BY PLAYING HOSE ON IT GENTLY AND ALLOW MUD TO FLOAT OFF.

FINISH OFF WITH CLEAN CHAMOIS. IF WATER IS ALLOWED TO DRY ON IT, WILL LEAVE STREAKS.

Muffler Nut
 The exhaust and the muffler tube are usually united by a large hexagonal nut, which frequently shakes off, due to the vibration incident to ordinary road travel and then follows a series of tremendous bumps that will call the police of most municipalities. The best way to avoid the trouble is to drill both nut and tube with a small hole that will take a wire nail, which will hold the muffler firmly in place.

It is often difficult to start by hand the small screws such as are used in the magnet, speedometer, etc. An easy way around this difficulty is to hold the screws between the legs of a pair of calipers, a drawing compass or even in the slot of an ordinary steel pen. The screw is then driven home by the small screwdriver. The same method may be used in replacing small nuts located inaccessibly.

DAIRYMAN'S LEAGUE DEFENDANT IN ACTION IN DELAWARE SUPREME COURT

Many Witnesses Called in Case of Clark A. Sanford as Trustee of Delaware and Greene Creamery Company Versus Dairyman's League—Case May Not Be Finished for Some Time.

Delhi, June 29. — On Wednesday morning the case of Clark A. Sanford as Trustee of Delaware and Greene Creamery Company, Inc., vs. Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Inc., was called. Lewis, Pratt & Fowler, by Mr. Pratt, with the firm of Ives & Craft, and George A. Speenburgh appeared for the plaintiff. Seward A. Miller, chief counsel for the Dairyman's league, Mr. Fuller and A. L. O'Connor for the defendant.

In this matter, plaintiff's complaint of the defendant alleges that on the 17th day of March, 1921, the Delaware and Greene Creamery company was duly adjudged a bankrupt in United States district court and further alleges that prior to this, on or about August 7th, 1920, the said Delaware and Greene Creamery company entered into an agreement with the Dairyman's League Co-operative association whereby the Creamery company agreed to sell and the league agreed to buy the plant, good will, etc., of said company, consisting of all the real and personal property incident to its business for the sum of $153,444.44.

Thereafter the league entered into the possession of the property and continued therein until about April 1st, 1921, during which time it operated the plant, fulfilled the several contracts taken over from said corporation, made changes in the creamery and otherwise operated said property as its own.

Plaintiff further alleges that the said bankrupt performed all the conditions of the said contract, but that the defendant failed and refused to perform said contract, abandoning plant on or about April 1st, 1921, without ever having paid any part of the purchase price, and that the value of the said property at the time of the bankruptcy was over made by the bankrupt for the reason that the actual title was held by Sander Whipple and that the conveyance was to be made upon the payment to Whipple of the sum of $200 for the land and the further sum of $3,000 to Whipple for materials furnished in the erection of the plant. That the defendant knew these facts and endeavored to pay these sums to Whipple and take a deed of the property direct from him. This the defendant failed to do. That by reason of this the Delaware and Greene Creamery company was damaged in the sum of $124,923.02 and that no part of this sum has been paid to the plaintiff and there is now due and owing to him as trustee the sum above mentioned with interest from August 17th, 1920.

The defendant admits that it entered into possession of the creamery's plant and that it operated the same during the latter part of the year, 1920, and the first part of the year, 1921, but alleges that such possession and use was pursuant to a lease with the Creamery company, and denies that such possession was obtained or continued under any other agreement or contract.

The defendant also admits that the league assumed a contract for the sale of condensed milk, which the Delaware and Greene company had entered into with another corporation. The defendant further alleges that the agreement set forth in the complaint was not made in any written, subscribed by the Delaware and Greene Creamery company, or by the defendant or by any lawful agent of either of said parties or corporations, and that by reason of such omission the agreement is void.

The defendant further alleges that in the summer of 1920 the Delaware and Greene Creamery company was a large sum of money and had contracts for the manufacture and sale of condensed milk. It was unable to obtain and under which reason of default it was unable to obtain a large sum of money. That at this time the defendant was in the possession of the plant and that the league officers in an effort to comply made investigations of the Creamery company's affairs. That after the investigation a verbal agreement was made whereby the league agreed to consider the purchase of the Creamery company's property upon certain conditions which were as follows: That at least $50,000 be raised and paid to the league; that sufficient contracts for milk with producers be obtained to insure a sufficient milk supply so that the said plant could be economically operated.

The following are the witnesses as far as known to the case and an outline of their testimony:

Bruce Kilpatrick of Yonkers was the first witness called to the stand by the plaintiff. He testified that he was a director and also treasurer of the Dairyman's League Co-operative association of New York between the period of June, 1920, and April, 1921, and that Coleman and Greene and also a Mr. Tweddle, solicitors of the Delaware and Greene Creamery company, called upon his office within that above mentioned period.

John Caswell of Margareville, who was elected president of the Delaware and Greene company and retained that office until the concern went into bankruptcy, was next to appear. He stated that the creamery building, situated along the Ulster and Delaware railroad tracks near the Austin bridge was about 40 feet in length and a two-story affair. It was equipped with two high-pressure boilers, two big engines, a large dynamo, two condensing pumps and ice units and cold storage plant, and four or five two-ton trucks and one three-ton truck.

In April, 1920, a directors' meeting was held and H. E. Phillips, a Dairyman's league accountant, was present. Phillips examined the Delaware and Greene company's books and later was present at a stockholders' meeting held in the Margareville Opera house, where he discussed the possibility of this company joining the Dairyman's league.

Mr. Fuller stated that the league would take over the plant and that $50,000 were furnished them for working expenses. They would in turn issue certificates of indebtedness, which, with interest, would be paid back in five-year installments. Bruce Kilpatrick, also present at this meeting, stated that the league would have to have 100 per cent. patronage from the farmers and this proposition was rejected by the Delaware and Greene stockholders.

At this point the defense objected to former President Caswell's reading the minutes of meetings in Secretary Todd's record book and Todd himself was asked for. As Todd is station agent on the D. & N. railroad and could not be present for that reason, he was unable to satisfy the plea for his appearance. At this point the judge brought forth a few smiles from all present when he asked if Todd could not be prevailed upon to come to Delhi some day when the D. & N. trains were not running.

On Thursday the following witnesses were called on the part of the plaintiff: W. M. Hayes, Don Franklin, Fred L. Smith, W. S. Crocker, C. B. Sanford, J. R. Scudder, Ralph S. Ives, Bradley Fuller, George A. Speenburgh. This list includes witnesses called Friday morning, at which point the plaintiff rested. Bruce Kilpatrick, former treasurer, now office manager of the Dairyman's league, was next witness for defense. A motion for a nonsuit will be argued when defendant's rest. It is expected this case will be closed today as defendants will present but few witnesses.

Court was adjourned until Monday afternoon. Justice Hill will preside this week and the term will be continued the following week with Justice Kellery presiding.

The committee then proceeded to ballot for candidates to be recommended. W. H. Sturges of Worcester, and Mrs. Della Bolton of Oneonta being named as tellers.

The name of Frank M. Smith of Springfield for assembly was presented and, there being no other candidates, Mr. Smith was duly endorsed.

His remarks were enthusiastically received by the committee.

Frank M. Smith, candidate for assembly nomination, and Adrian A. Pierson for county judge, were called to the floor and each responded with timely and appropriate remarks. Resolutions were also presented and unanimously passed commending the record of President Coolidge, Congressman Clarke, Senator Bloomfield and Assemblyman Julian C. Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Coolidge has had to sit hard on rival groups in the Republican camp in order to prevent what might have developed into a disastrous split in his campaign management.

That there has been no love lost between C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president, and William M. Butler, Coolidge's selection as new chairman of the G. O. P. national committee, has been open gossip for weeks. Developments at the national convention where Butler's attempts to dictate and vice presidential selection met with rebuff, widened rather than closed the breach.

Slemp, it has been hinted, had rather hoped to be chairman himself, but acquiesced silently when Butler was named. As an experienced politician however, he found it hard to remain silent while contemplating what seemed to him exceedingly amateurish moves in Butler's style of game.

FROM the other side of the table came the opinion that it no longer made any difference whether Slemp liked things or not; that he was brought into the administration family to line up the southern delegates for Coolidge and that now they had been delivered his hand was played out. He couldn't, it was suggested, deliver electoral votes. Indeed, with Democratic ready to revive the old story of his activities in raising party funds from postoffice appointees, the campaign might run a lot more smoothly if he would go back to his Stone Gap, Va., and run his own names, for Democrats inferred.

In this situation, Slemp went into executive session with the president. What transpired there, of course, is a matter between themselves. The John T. Adams-George B. Lockwood wing of the party, however, smiled broadly when Slemp emerged and announced that the rumor he intended resigning was altogether baseless. Nothing to whatever, he insisted. He would remain as secretary to the president.

Also—and this was stated with emphasis—he expected to be a member of an advisory board to be set up, which would manage the presidential campaign. The president, however, later made it plain that his friend Butler would remain first in command.

Butler's efforts to get Borah to make the race with Coolidge were responsible for engendering toward him the bitter enmity of the extreme conservatives in the party. Butler wanted first of all a ticket that would win.

The others wanted, first of all, a ticket that was safe. They insisted that the ticket be kept clear of western progressivism, while Butler held that it takes all kinds of men to make a party and that a man is not necessarily wrong just because he happens to disagree with certain other men. Fundamentally, he couldn't see why Coolidge and Borah couldn't stand on the same platform. Why not, if they could get the votes?

Butler, from the viewpoint of other Republicans who have been watching his course, is more interested in Calvin Coolidge than in the Republican party. His is held to be a personal rather than a party interest.

The same cannot be said for the Lodges, the Watsons, the Smoots and the Adamses. They think in terms of party first and of a party free from all the influences and "managers" of "liberal" thought.

As a result, the campaign management is apt to be fraught with complications. And Coolidge must be arbiter in all these disputes.
